

Brian Sites

2013 Finalist for Washington State Teacher of the Year

Brian Sites is an innovative, award-winning, National Board Certified Teacher who strives to assist students in building a better future by creating hope and helping them work towards achieving their goals in life. He mentors students in a blended learning program, and focuses on increasing resilience through a Growth Mindset approach.

Sites has received recognition from the National Dropout Prevention Network (2008 Crystal Star Award), Eastern Washington University (2008, Distinguished Alumni), was a Washington State Teacher of the Year Finalist (2013), and the NEA Foundation Award for Excellence in Teaching Horace Mann Award recipient (2014). Currently Brian is active in his district in standards-based learning and promoting trauma-informed approaches to learning, as well as coordinating four Teacher Leadership Academies in Washington State through the Washington Education Association.